Israel Begins Setting Up Trial For Eichmann

Former Nazi SS Leader Convinced He Is Doomed Man

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector, (AP) — Israel has begun setting up a showcase trial for Adolf Eichmann, charged with sharing major responsibility for the slaughter of six million European Jews. The trial is expected to run about a year and Eichmann expects to be doomed.

Israeli authorities probably will stage the trial in a big hall in Jerusalem. It is certain to delve into the whole Hitlerite German operation of gas chambers and concentration camps.

Eichmann, whose arrest by Israeli secret service agents has been cloaked in mystery, is relaxed now, following the initial shock of his capture after 15 years on the run.

Believes He Is Doomed

He is said to regard himself as a doomed man, but believes he has a responsibility toward history to throw light on the Nazi effort to effect "a final solution of the Jewish question."

Reports from Buenos Aires said Israeli agents picked him up in Argentina and smuggled him out on an Israeli airliner that carried delegates to Argentine Independence Day celebrations.

Although he is now depicted as one of the most infamous criminals of all time, the Israeli public knew relatively little about Eichmann or the relentless hunt for him.

Even his origins are uncertain. Nazi files show Eichmann was born in Solingen in the Ruhr area March 19, 1906. But there are persistent reports he was born a year earlier in Austria. Others say he was born near Tel Aviv.

Premier David Ben-Gurion electrified Parliament last week by announcing his capture.

Israelis are horrified by stories that have since cropped up. There's the story by Joel Brand, a wartime Jewish agency official, who testified in another court case that Eichmann offered to trade the lives of a million Jews in return for 1,000 tons of coffee and tea and 10,000 trucks from the Allies. The offer was spurned.

Then there's a report from Frankfurt by the prosecutor of the state of Hesse. He presented a letter written to SS Reich leader Heinrich Himmler in which Eichmann was commended for "de-jewing" Austria.

Eichmann had been placed in

Chilean City Rocked by More Tremors

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Nine more earth tremors rocked quake-stricken Concepcion in south-central Chile Saturday night and early Sunday.

The city of 100,000, staggered by two giant quakes a week ago, was driven to near panic when the strongest convulsion struck about 3 1/2 hours after midnight and toppled dozens of homes.

There was no immediate report of new casualties.

The two previous quakes killed 112 persons in Concepcion. Ernesto Rodriguez, news editor of the Concepcion newspaper La Patria, said the tremors "set the buildings in the downtown area swaying back and forth and many of the homes that withstood the earlier shocks and crumbled."

He added that most residents huddled in the streets and parks during the night rather than risk being trapped in falling buildings.

The latest tremors came as southern Chile began a slow, agonizing recovery from a week-long onslaught of quakes and tidal waves. Many officials said the recovery would take years, perhaps decades.

They predicted the final death count from the disaster would reach 5,000. Damage was estimated at nearly a billion dollars.

New Turk Cabinet Tackles Problems

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — The Turks appeared calm, matter of fact and ready to move ahead Sunday under a new government of military men and civilian specialists headed by Lt. Gen. Cemal Gursel as president-premier.

The provisional Cabinet which Gursel formed Saturday to succeed that of deposed ex-Premier Adnan Menderes, started study of the immense post-revolt problems. The Cabinet will hold its first formal meeting Monday.

The atmosphere of Ankara, headquarters of the military coup which ended Menderes' 10-year authoritarian rule Friday, was relaxed.

Small groups of students occasionally banded together for cheerful demonstrations. Broken windows and scattered files at Menderes' former Democratic party

Sophia Loren Robbed of Gems

Value of Jewels Set at $1 Million

LONDON (AP) — Sophia Loren called in Scotland Yard early Sunday and reported she had been robbed of jewels worth about a million dollars. The Italian actress is in Britain making a film version of George Bernard Shaw's "The Millionaires."

Police were told the gems were in a leather attache case stolen last night from a chest of drawers in a rented country mansion where Miss Loren is living.

Movie Producer Pierre Rove said the jewels were mainly emeralds, diamonds and rubies which "meant more than just wealth to Miss Loren—they were milestones on her struggle to success."

"She was very upset," Rove said, upon discovering the loss when she returned home after meeting her movie producer husband, Carlo Ponti, on his arrival at London Airport last night. She was described as too upset to make an exact inventory.

"There is no justice," she wailed.

With detectives still clumping around the house and searching its spacious grounds, Miss Loren retired to bed with the announcement that she would seek nobody.

The detectives took photographs of marks on a window.

Traffic Toll Slackens After Record Pace

In Tribute to Those Who Made Supreme Sacrifice

200 Persons Reported Killed On Highways

20 Drowning Victims; Ohio Road Deaths Mount at Fast Rate

By The Associated Press
Traffic 200
Boating 19
Drowning 20
Miscellaneous 40
Total 279

Safety officials began to look on the bright side Sunday when, for the first time this three-day Memorial holiday weekend, the traffic death toll dropped behind the pace of record statistics rolled up two years ago.

Reports Pace Slackens

"The pace has slackened," a National Safety Council spokesman said, "to the point where there's good reason to believe we can stay below the 1958 figures—that is, if drivers continue to show good sense."

Over the comparable 1958 Memorial weekend, the most recent which also lasted 78 hours, a record 371 persons met death on the highways.

Well into the second half of this year's holiday period, reports of fatalities on an hourly basis kept ahead of the 1958 figures. As each hour passed, an average of nearly four highway deaths was ticked off. The spokesman commented: "There is only one sane way to slow it down and that is for every driver to drive as his common sense tells him to drive."

Estimated 375 Deaths

Before the traditional weekend kick-off to the annual vacation season got under way, at 6 p.m. Friday, the council estimated 375 lives could be lost by the end of the period, midnight Monday. It noted that at one point or another over the holiday, nearly all of the nation's 73 million automobiles would be on the move.

For comparative purposes The Associated Press ran a 78-hour nonholiday survey of traffic deaths from 6 p.m. Friday, May 13, until midnight Monday, May 16. The results showed 330 traffic deaths, 20 more than the council estimated for a typical nonholiday period at this time of the year.

Last year, when the Memorial weekend was a two-day affair, 310 lives were lost in traffic.

In other categories of memorial holiday weekend fatalities this year, boating accidents, drownings and miscellaneous accidents likewise took their destructive toll.

Ohio Road Fatalities

With more than 24 hours to go in the Memorial Day holiday weekend, Ohio already had registered more than half the number of traffic fatalities recorded during last year's holiday.

The traffic toll for the 1959 holiday was 22. And in this holiday weekend, which is one day longer, 12 persons have lost their lives on Ohio highways as of Sunday evening.

There have been four deaths in other categories.

At least two multiple fatality accidents have occurred, one a truck-car crash in Ashland County Sunday in which a father and his 10-year-old daughter were killed, and the other a house fire in Cleveland Saturday in which a father and his two small children perished.

Curiously proved fatal for a 14-year-old Conneaut boy. He climbed 30 feet to investigate a covered platform atop a utility pole and touched a 33,000-volt power line. An Associated Press survey of accidental holiday deaths covers the period from 6:30 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday.

Student Kills Beauty Queen

Throws Her Body Into Fish Pond

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Enraged over a faded romance, an engineering student strangled a college beauty queen and dumped her body in a fish pond during a party early Sunday, police said.

The pair had broken up a month ago because of religious differences, the dead girl's father told police. But the girl's mother denied this, explaining that her daughter "just wanted to date other fellows."

Emil S. Daruty, 22, a student at Pacific States University, was booked on suspicion of murder in the slaying of pretty, red-haired Mari Anna Hatch, 19, a student at Los Angeles City College.

Police quoted him as saying: "I never got mad at a person in my life. I never struck a person in my life. I don't know what

Disappeared on Spying Mission

Frogman Crabb Said Serving In Soviet Navy

LONDON (AP) — A new controversy blew up Sunday around the case of Cmdr. Lionel (Buster) Crabb, a British wartime frogman who disappeared four years ago on an underwater spying mission in Portsmouth Harbor.

British May Give French Atomic Data

LONDON (AP)—Britain was reported Sunday to be preparing to share atomic secrets with France.

There were suggestions that U. S. atomic information might also be involved. A British-American treaty was signed last year to cut out duplication of atomic research and much knowledge has already been pooled by the two Western partners.

There was no official confirmation of the move to deal in the French, but the Sunday Express said details of an agreement are already being worked out in London, Paris and Washington.

"It will give President de Gaulle a complete dossier on atomic know-how," said the Express.

The newspaper added that H-bomb secrets and other thermonuclear developments would be excluded from any agreement, but that France would be "saved several years" work on research and will save several million pounds.

The Sunday Dispatch carried a similar story and said the French should be enabled "to evolve their own H-bomb more quickly."

Under the British-American agreement, U. S. atomic information is restricted to use by Britain. Washington approval would be necessary before the field was widened.

Monday, "Frogman Extraordinary," by J. Bernard Hutton, claims Crabb was captured alive by the Russians when he dived beneath a Soviet cruiser during the visit of Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev in April 1956.

The book claims Crabb was taken back to the Soviet Union and so successfully brainwashed that he is now serving in the Red navy under the name of Lev Lvovich Korablov.

Hutton, a 48-year-old Czech-born journalist, says secret Soviet documents about the Crabb case were smuggled to him from behind the Iron Curtain.

A high-ranking admiralty spokesman declared: "Our experts have studied Mr. Hutton's book and they have arrived at the conclusion that the dossier is a complete fabrication. The book is also discreditable to the Royal Navy and to the memory of a very brave officer and gentleman."

But another naval hero, Cmdr. J. S. Kerans, who commanded the frigate Amethyst during her escape down the Yangtze river under Red Chinese guns, is not satisfied.

Kerans, now a member of Parliament, said: "I am convinced that Crabb is alive and in Russian hands. The government must reopen this case."

Kerans has given notice he intends to ask Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd this week to probe further into Crabb's disappearance.

Lloyd probably will refuse to do so. The government's attitude is that Crabb is dead and buried and the case closed.

Fourteen months after Crabb disappeared, a body in a frogman's suit was washed ashore 10 miles from Portsmouth. It had no hands and no head—which made identification difficult.

His wife was unable to identify the body—but a coroner was satisfied that other evidence pointed to it being the body of Crabb.

Hutton's book claims this body was planted by the Russians to stifle rumors in Britain and abroad that Crabb was alive and in Soviet hands. He points out that the body was found only three days after three Soviet submarines passed down the English Channel on their way to Egypt.

Wife Died of Grief Last April

Father Recalls Day When Train Killed His 8 Children

SIGOURNEY, Iowa (AP)—The mournful wail of a train whistle rebounded off the rolling green hills, surrounding this small southeastern Iowa town.

Richard Hammes, 49, swung his head toward the direction of the sound and murmured, "They're blowing the whistle longer ever since the children..."

"His voice trailed off in a whisper as he remembered a day back in October, 1956, when his world almost stopped. Among all who remember on this Memorial Day, few carry tragic recollection of the weight borne by Richard Hammes.

"On Oct. 26, four years ago, Mrs. Hammes was driving the family automobile toward a country schoolhouse when it collided with a Rock Island freight train at a blind crossing just northeast of their home.

In the car with her were the Hammes' eight children, 9-year-old twins Ronnie and Donnie; Karen, 8; Linda, 7; Gary, 6; Rosemary, 3; and Rickie and Vicky, 1-year-old twins.

Seven of the children were killed outright in the crash. The eighth died a short time later at the county hospital in Sigourney.

Mrs. Hammes survived one of the worst traffic accidents in Iowa history.

More than a year later, the birth of a son, Myron, helped the Hammes forget a bit about the tragic past.

They worked hard at rearing their son and building up the family business—wool, fur and hide buying and farming.

Then tragedy struck a second time.

Mrs. Hammes, 41, died last April 18 of a heart attack just before scheduled birth to what would have been the Hammes' second child of their new family. "The doc said her heart was just too heavy with grieving about the children. It had to give," Hammes said in a faltering voice.

Hammes recalls the past like a man awakening from a frightening dream and wondering whether what he dreamed about could be real.

Explained a sister, Cleo Conklin:

"He doesn't understand why he should have to bear it all. We don't understand either. The answer is with God."

Hammes, his neighbors say, has been making remarkable recovery for a man whose large family, once his life, has been cut down.

"Richard is a very strong man—both mentally and physically.

That helps," one neighbor remarked.

Hammes, his shock of red hair now flecked with gray, has found much of his gallantry for living in faith and prayer.

The sound of the train whistle carried over the lush hills to Sts. Peter and Paul Church, a small country parish located at Clear Creek, about 10 miles east of the Hammes place on Highway 92 about three miles east of Sigourney.

Next to the church is a small graveyard. Here the children and Mrs. Hammes are buried.

Perhaps Hammes finds some peace of mind in tranquil words inscribed on a memorial to the children in the same graveyard. They read:

"Now the Lord says, a voice is heard in Rama; it is Rachel weeping for her children and she will not be comforted for none is left; but thus He reassures them. Sad eyes, weep no more; to their own possessions thy children shall return." (Jeremiah 31:15).

Eisenhower Prays For U. S. War Dead

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower prayed Sunday for America's heroic war dead. And his pastor declared, "No price is too great to be spared conquest, occupation and slavery."

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower drove through light rain from their farm to 8:30 a.m. services at the Gettysburg Presbyterian church. They are spending the Memorial Day weekend at their country place.

The First Lady, who wore a small black hat and a bright yellow coat over a light gray suit, seldom accompanies the President when he goes to early services.

Looking a bit sleepy-eyed, she smiled and told the Rev. Robert A. MacAskill, the pastor: "It's a little early for me."

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church had designated this Sunday before Memorial Day as a day of intercession. The congregation prayed that "the sovereign God... might grant the wisdom and the will to all in authority everywhere to solve the world's problems, and that by His grace He might give us peace in His time."

GROWTH

Is soaring inflation the inevitable price of economic growth? The relationship between prices and growth was the question 64 representatives of education, labor, business and government put to themselves recently at a meeting of the American Assembly. Their answer: we can indeed have dynamic growth with reasonably stable prices and low unemployment. But there is only one way this ideal can be translated into reality—through a continued effort by all of us to achieve a steady rise in productivity.

Take a look at the facts about America's future—they're important to you! Write today for the free booklet, "Prices, Growth and You," to: American Assembly, Columbia University, New York 27, New York.

Reserve a Day For Patching, Cleaning Driveway

If your driveway isn't cracked or broken, it's probably dirty and stained. Few drives get through a winter looking brand new.

And if you've bought a new car this spring — other than a compact—you've probably decided that the driveway needs widening as well as repairing.

One warm weather chore is to get the driveway looking good again. If you have an asphalt or black top driveway it may have as many chuckholes as streets of the same material. The weight of your car makes them worse. And spring rains manage to wash away a lot of loose material.

COLD PATCH MIX in a variety of brands is available for such repair jobs. Clean the loose material out of the hole. Partially fill with small rocks or gravel. Fill with cold patch and tamp down with the end of a 2 x 4. Try muriatic acid. Do it carefully. The acid softens the surface momentarily. Flush quickly with water.

Once the drive is looking good again, decide if there's enough of it. If you step out of the car and into mud or wet grass, there isn't.

CUT OUT ENOUGH earth alongside the drive so that patio blocks on a bed of sand one inch thick will be flush with the surface. A strip of redwood set on edge along the edge of the blocks and also flush with their surface will hold them in. Drive in wedges at intervals. Remember, this is to step on, not drive on.

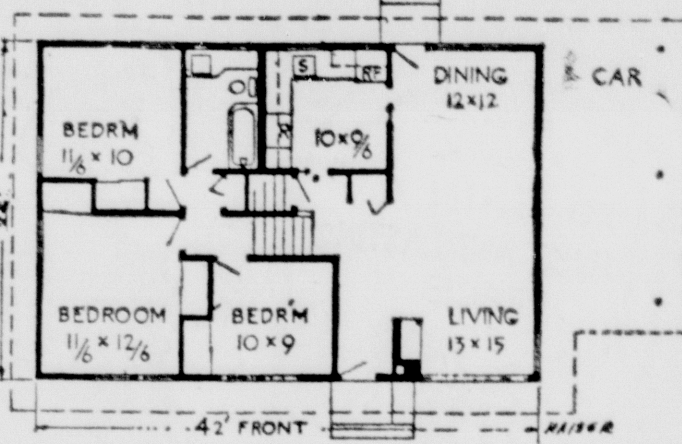

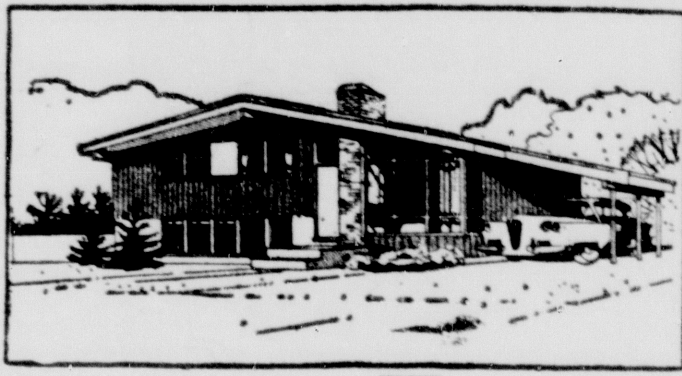

If you want something more permanent, fill the excavation with stones and broken concrete. Set up a form board for the new width and fill with ready-mix concrete. Level, wait 30 minutes and smooth with a metal float.

Sprinkling a little sand on the fresh patch will keep shoes and tires from sticking.

Cracks in concrete should be cleaned out and undercut with a chisel. Make the gap wider at the bottom than at the top. Wet thoroughly and fill with concrete patch. Use a dry ready-mix and add water for small jobs.

CONCRETE DRIVES accumulate stains quite readily. There are a variety of home cures—a thick paste of lemon juice and salt is one, a paste of lye, water and sawdust is another.

Detergents designed for automatic dishwashers are quite take care of such stains. Almost any of these spot removers require repeated treatment. Commercial grease cleaners are carried in many auto accessory stores—just spray on and hose off.

ECONOMICAL SPLIT — This seven-room split level offers all the features necessary for comfortable living, but has no costly frills. The living-dining area is 25 feet deep, windowed at each end; the raised corner fireplace forms a small vestibule, and the basement recreation room comes as a "bonus", since it costs little for construction. The Plan HA136R, has 1,092 square feet on the main level, plus 650 square feet in the basement. The architect is Jan Reiner, Post Office Box 96, New Port Richey, Fla.

Planning to Buy a House? Check With Your Banker

Getting ready to buy a house? Ever think that it might be a good idea to talk to your banker even before you start looking?

Well, it would. And here's why: Your local banker is experienced in all phases of home purchasing. Since processing and granting mortgage loans is an important part of his daily business, he knows all the reputable builders and brokers in the area. He wants a happy relationship with the homebuyer and is just as anxious as you are for the success of your financial step in making the purchase.

Can Provide Answers
He can provide you with the answer to a very important question—how much house can you afford? There are certain rules of thumb in this matter, but they may not apply to you. All families have objectives that are not the same, as they have problems that are not identical. Your age, health, debt, responsibilities, ties, earning prospects, size of family and assets all will be taken into consideration by your banker in advising you how much you can spend for a house.

Generally, a family with an annual income ranging between $5,000 and $15,000 per year can afford a house costing about 2½ times the annual income. To put it another way, the monthly charges of your home—including the amortization of the mortgage, interest, taxes and insurance should not exceed 25 per cent of your monthly take-home pay. But there may be special reasons why you do not have to follow this theory. You may have a debt that would make it unwise for you to spend as much for a house as another family with the identical income. Or there may be a reason why you can spend more; you may have enough liquid assets to carry you over a rough financial period should it occur.

Large Down as Possible.
Most home buyers feel that a 25 or 30-year mortgage with a low down payment is a wonderful deal for them. It is true that it may enable some persons to buy homes they couldn't otherwise handle. But you generally are better off and certainly will save money if you can make as large a down payment as possible and pay off the mortgage as quickly as possible.

Dr. Kurt Flexner of the Mortgage Division of the American Bankers Assn., points out that, with a 15-year mortgage of $10,000 you will pay about $3,500 less than with a 25-year mortgage of the same amount.

True, everyone can not afford

Did You Remember to Wash The Walls On The Outside?

Just because your house looks a little on the grimy side is no reason to figure on an expensive paint job. If the old paint job is less than three to five years old painting again can be a waste of money.

New paint should be washed. Chances are that nature has taken care of a good deal of the washing for you, or will once the spring rains are past. Modern paints are designed to be self-cleaning. They wear down slowly and the chalkiness is washed away by the rain, with it goes most of the soot and grime.

Helping Hand
But nature may need a helping hand.

A good hosing with a strong stream of water may be all that's needed.

But an even better job can be done with a thorough washing. Start with the hose, wetting one entire side of the house. Get the stream into corners. Work from the bottom up to prevent streaking. (Remember this when you wash indoor walls too.)

Next, apply a detergent. An easy way to do this is with a hose attachment generally used for weed killers and insecticides. Mix a strong solution of a low sudsing detergent in the jar that is part of the sprayer.

Start from Bottom
Again start from the bottom and spray the detergent on the walls. Flush with clear water before it dries. A scrub brush can take care of stubborn spots. Mount one on a long handle to reach higher areas.

Hose brushes used for cleaning autos can also be used for this sort of work.

Start on the shady side of the house and work your way around to avoid the sun. You'll be more comfortable and the surface won't dry before you can rinse it.

Three Days For Drying
Washing is also a wise procedure those years that you intend to paint. If you care to take the time, you'll find yourself with a better paint job. Remember to allow the surface plenty of time to dry out before painting. Three days is generally long enough.

Not all stains will come off with a washing. Nail heads will cause rusting. While these stains could be scrubbed off by hand with a strong cleaning solution, it's wiser to sand them. Spot prime the nail heads with aluminum paint and then add a second coat of house paint.

Bear, deer, porcupine, rabbits and other rodents destroy between 12 to 15 million dollars' worth of trees annually, accord-

Decoration Day Since 1868

We wonder every year as Maytime comes to a close what happened to the original Decoration Day. In our home towns, that was its name.

Decoration Day ... Gen John A. Logan had started it on May 5, 1868, with his General Order No. 11: "The 30th day of May, 1868, is designated for the purpose of strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country during the late rebellion, and whose bodies now lie in almost every city, village and hamlet churchyard in the land."

That was how it had begun and that was how it had been carried on through the years while there still were survivors of the Civil War — aging men who had worn the Blue and sometimes the Gray — to give point and purpose to the ceremony of Decoration day.

BUT SOMETHING has been happening to Decoration Day. The ache and throb of the great day are not as they were when quiet graves in churchyards and the old sections of cemeteries spoke so eloquently of human sacrifice.

There were graves of men who had fought in the Revolutionary War, the War of 1812 and the Spanish - American War. Still to be made were the World War I graves and those of World War II and Korea. For many in those days, the Decoration Day ceremony was as real as their grandfather and the sword he had brought home with him.

That is what has happened to Decoration Day. The people who savored its original poignancy have grown older. Succeeding generations who never knew how it used to be do not feel the same deep reverence that once was the universal sentiment of the holiday.

"Let no vandalism of avarice or neglect, no ravages of time, testify to the present or to the coming generations that we have forgotten as a people the cost of a free and undivided Republic," was the Logan order. "If other eyes grow dull and other hands slack, and other hearts cold in the solemn trust, ours shall keep it well as long as the light and warmth of life remain in us ... It is the purpose of the commander-in-chief to inaugurate this observance with the hope that it will be kept up from year to year, while a survivor of the war remains to honor the memory of his departed comrades."

THIS, THEN, is what happened to the original Decoration Day.

Two World Wars and the disappearance of the last of the Civil War survivors have taken away its special significance for all who were born too late to know the quiet era when entire communities walked to the cemeteries and churchyards to pay their respects to men who had fought in the rebellion.

The hope that a modern Memorial Day might become a tribute to all the soldier dead is worthy but wishful, because Veterans Day on Nov. 11 is dedicated to that purpose in both the North and South. It replaced another holiday whose special significance faded with time — Armistice Day, commemorating the end of World War I, the "war to end all wars" and "make the world safe for democracy."

Decoration Day — Memorial Day — is cherished by millions who never saw a survivor of the Civil War or decorated a hero's grave. It has become an occasion for the display of the American flag and for beautifying cemeteries. And for those who will never forget, it always will be what Gen. Logan intended it should be — a day for strewing with flowers the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country during the War Between the States.

Nelson Rockefeller Would Accept

There's a saying in politics that no sane American would turn down a genuine draft to run for the presidency.

This is obviously what New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller had in mind when he told his state's Republican delegates he would accept a draft. He is going on record as a sane American, a state of being that no one ever had doubted.

But even a sane American, confronted with the insanities and inanities of politics, must put on the cap and bells of foolishness sometimes to cope with the follies of the political trade. It's all part of the act.

For Gov. Rockefeller the problem is how to keep himself available for a genuine draft to run for president on the Republican ticket, in case something happens to Vice President Nixon, without seeming to make himself available for a draft to run for vice president.

First things first.

Gov. Rockefeller was willing to bid for the presidential nomination until it was more clear to him by the party's state chairman that they preferred to give the nomination to Mr. Nixon. He never has said he was available for a vice-presidential nomination and never will say so, until there is no chance of first place.

That's a saying in politics, too — that no one in his right mind settles for second place as long as he has any hope of first place.

Gov. Rockefeller is eminently in his right mind. He has enough hope of first place to admit he would go along with a genuine draft. There will be time enough if he is disappointed to think about second place.

He knows what everybody else who has given two thoughts to the matter knows — that a Republican ticket of Richard Nixon and Nelson Rockefeller would be a powerful combination.

He knows something else that everybody else knows now — that the vice presidency of the United States never again will be the project in obscurity it was made to be until Dwight Eisenhower revolutionized the position.

Especially under Mr. Nixon in the presidency, the vice president would become in fact the alternate president, because if Mr. Nixon makes the grade he will be limited to two terms and will want to prepare his potential successor.

The news that Mr. Rockefeller would accept a draft for the No. 1 position is something less than sensational. He would accept a draft for the No. 2 position if the No. 1 position eluded him. You can bet on it.

Natural Disasters In One World

Nothing could have testified more eloquently to worldwide interdependence for security than the tidal waves that caused enormous damage in the Pacific after earthquakes in Chile.

Here was a particularly horrible reminder of worldwide insecurity. It is not to be imagined that the wide-ranging effects of an isolated occurrence will cool off men's ardor for committing violence of their own. But it can be imagined that Hawaiians, Australians, Japanese and residents of the Pacific Coast of North America would find it harder to believe than it was before that what happens in Chile is not their concern.

In this instance, it destroyed their property and broke their bodies. It will cost them a great deal of money to repair and replace what was destroyed.

Less than a century ago they would have had no way to know there had been an earthquake. There would have been no warning, no information either before or after and no way to rationalize a disaster that might have seemed to be punishment for wrongdoing.

Today, though much is known, nothing can be done to avert the effects of the knowable. Knowledge merely has emphasized men's helplessness in the presence of natural disasters. For men to dream of supplementing nature's own dangers with large-scale disasters of their own manufacture is an affront to sanity.

Who Let Them Down, Grandpa?

Inside Labor By Victor Riesel

They invented baseball out in Cooperstown, N. Y., but its Hall of Fame has no record of anything as fast as the one Nelson Rockefeller will pitch there at all sides Wednesday night.

Having just challenged all to debate foreign affairs, he will switch to the home front in the second of a definitive series of speeches. Some observers say these talks will rally "Rockefeller - for - President" supporters across the land.

The governor will swing out at those who haven't been planning to tame the brain machine — by any other name it's the specter of automation.

This he'll do at a banquet Wednesday evening at the rural Hotel Otisaga in Cooperstown, where he'll be surrounded by New York's most influential labor leaders and their technicians from Washington as well as business and civic personalities.

THEY WILL BE gathered for a three-day "Working Conference to Help Develop a Clearer Understanding of the Promise and Problems of Automation."

This is the governor's own phrasing. He issued the call for the parley back on April 3.

At that time Rockefeller said, "Automation presents a major challenge as well as a bright hope to our country and state in the critical era in which we live." He added that he wanted to discover the impact of the thinking machine on jobs.

Nothing could be closer to the hearts of the regional and national labor chiefs. The governor has been talking for months to such men as Dave Sullivan, the Building Service International Union president.

In New York City Sullivan is head of the Central Labor Council's "Shorter Work Week Committee."

Sullivan's problem is typical of what has given the national union chiefs their organizational nightmares. He told me the other day that his union had seen automatic elevators and cleaning machinery wipe out the need for 15,000 jobs in 12 years in New York City alone.

AT THE AFL-CIO'S Research Division, assistant director Nat Goldfinger reports that 2,900,000 jobs have been eliminated by the electronic brain which runs machines which replace manpower.

Among Goldfinger's bread-and-butter data is the impact of automation on factory jobs in the past seven years. At least 1 1/2 million specific tasks have been taken over by automations which do human work.

This does not measure men laid off for some reason. It measures the number of jobs which no longer exist and have disappeared as permanently as the chore of King Arthur's armor bearer.

Add to this the ending of some 200,000 mining jobs; 400,000 rail jobs, and some 30,000 meat packing house "slots."

Not all of these are union posts but the decrease has cost the AFL-CIO alone some 800,000 members.

This has doubled the number of jobless in the past seven years — roughly from less than two million unemployed to nearly four million out of work today. The experts reckon that about one out of every 20 now is looking for work.

Men may live by more than bread alone. But when they begin counting the loaves they can not afford — in an election year — they think political and they act political.

THE "IN" PARTY always has been hurt when the unemployment figure starts rising higher than 5 per cent — or more than one jobless out of every 20 wage earners. I don't mean to compete with the polished opinion poll takers but here's a little tabulation which is fascinating:

In 1952, there was only one jobless out of every 33 workers. The Republicans swept the country, including taking "The Hill."

In '54 about one out of every 16 were jobless. The Democrats won the Congress.

In '56, one out of every 25 was seeking work. President Eisenhower was re-elected and the Congress was close.

In '58, the jobless rose to one out of every 14 breadwinners. The Democrats swept the nation.

Today joblessness is running mightily close to the political cut off point at which the country turns against the "ins." Labor blames it on automation.

Gov. Rockefeller is well aware of this. He'll have a plan to meet the machine head on. He'll announce a series of public hearings on automation. There is no doubt the labor leaders will consider him their friend.

Holiday Is Time To Reaffirm Our Faith

This year, as on every May 30th since 1868, we, as a nation, will pay tribute to those to whom the day is dedicated, but our thoughts in 1960 will be on the future, instead of the past.

The collapse of the summit conference fills the air with a fallout of uncertainty and defeatism. Our main concern is in getting for ourselves rather than in giving "increased devotion to that cause for which they gave their last full measure of devotion."

We forget or overlook the admonition that Abraham Lincoln so eloquently stated in his Gettysburg address when he reminded us: "It is for us the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus so nobly advanced."

Since that immortal address was delivered on Nov. 19, 1863, guided missiles, atom bombs and jet bombers have displaced the two-wheeled field cannon, the musket and the cavalry but apostles of defeatism and despair and the promulgators of appeasement remain.

THERE ARE those today, just as there were at Gettysburg, at Valley Forge, at Lexington and Bunker Hill who spread the doctrine of gloom and doom. Yet, despite the dire predictions of the critics and the seemingly insurmountable odds faced by men of faith and courage, our nation emerged as the greatest power on earth—and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

Today the critics deplore our lack of statesmen like Edmund Burke, Tom Paine, Thomas Jefferson and Lincoln. To them we are living in the age of the "unthinking."

Fault is found with the Eisenhower administration for the U2 incident as meddling in foreign affairs and for the rise of the Cuban dictatorship as a soft attitude toward Castro.

Juvenile delinquency is deplored. Schools are criticized for not keeping pace with the Soviets. Charges of moral deterioration and religious bigotry are common. Seemingly the attitude of the common man is a flat rejection of responsibility.

Yet there are some today, like Herbert Hoover, who have enduring hope and unbounded faith in this nation and the principles for which it stands.

When Everyone Is Alive

By HAL BOYLE

Editor's Note — The following column, written in 1957, won wide praise from readers who felt it caught well the spirit of Memorial Day. It is repeated by request.

NEW YORK (AP)—America today wears a sprig of rosemary over its heart for remembrance.

A miracle of resurrection takes place in millions of households as the dead come home again, and walk the earth once more in gladness.

Their presence is invisible to the eye, inescapable to the spirit. For this haunting day of return they are as live as we.

The loneliest man in the land is the man who has no one to remember on Memorial Day. He is indeed a soul lost, a stranger on the earth, a pilgrim going from nothing to nowhere.

For it is the memory of the dead that in great measure keeps us human, that sets us apart from stone and star, moss and mole, and all other feeling and unfeeling prisoners of the great jailer — time.

"What is Memorial Day?" asks the child. "Will I get a present — like on Christmas or my birthday?"

It is a hard question to answer. How can we, who are ourselves childishly bewildered by the mystery of both life and death, ex-melancholically on lost hopes and alien principles and the dissipation of the nation's heritage, the 85-year-old former President of the United States recently had this to say:

"... they said I must make a two-minute speech. I am grateful for the two-minute limit. It eliminates any discussion of the several foreign and domestic crises that haunt our sleep. It eliminates any remarks on our current campaign for the presidency. It leaves me free to say something good about the American people."

"The American people are making new discoveries in science and invention faster than any other nation. Despite the current gloomy lamentations we are armed against any attack. We are daily increasing our industrial productivity. We have most of our young in schools and colleges. We have more institutions of higher learning than all the rest of the world put together. Our people in the main cling to the goals set by the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. Most of our people cling to religious faith. "This nation is not in its decline and fall."

THE CIVIL WAR, out of which emerged our annual observance of Memorial Day, has passed into the pages of history.

The last veteran of that conflict answered taps for the last time within the year. There is little tangible evidence to link those men to the great events of their time, except the memorabilia in museums.

There are few survivors of the Spanish-American War. The first World War has all but passed into the oblivion of history. The second World War is rapidly following the first.

A new generation has arisen since Hitler invaded Poland in 1939. This new generation has no real concept of that war, yet its heritage is the aftermath of that war and the problems, as yet unsolved, that the war created. But this new generation also has the greater heritage of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness that the heroes sacrificed their lives to establish and preserve.

This year as taps are sounded for those who paid the supreme sacrifice may there also be reveille to reawaken our national pride and restore our faith in the concepts of human dignity that made America great.

Kiwanis Installs Flower Baskets on Light Posts

Members of the Salem Kiwanis Club spent Sunday afternoon installing specially-designed flower baskets on downtown light poles in a new attempt at city beautification.

The flower decorations project was sponsored by the Kiwanians, assisted by the Salem Garden Club. Among those helping to install the baskets were (left to right in the picture above) Donald Vincent, E. Ralph Martin, chairman, and George Daily.

Thirty-four of the wire mesh baskets have been attached to poles on downtown State St. and S.S. Broadway. The brackets, which are about 12 feet from the sidewalks, were installed earlier by city service department workers.

The baskets were planted by Garden Club and Kiwanis Club members, with the assistance of John Gilbert.

Members of the Senior Citizens Club have volunteered to keep the plants watered during the season, Mr. Martin said.

Ohio Bell, Union Okay New Contract

CLEVELAND (AP)—A tentative wage-labor agreement reached early Saturday by the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. and the Communications Workers of America could set a pattern for other communications workers in Ohio.

Such is the opinion of Martin Hughes, Ohio director of the CWA, whose organization just ended more than four weeks of negotiations with Ohio Bell.

Hughes said the tentative three-year agreement, which provides wage increases of $2 to $4.50, or about eight cents an hour for the workers affected, may influence the labor situation for Ohio's 3,000 other Bell system employees. He referred to those working for Western Electric and the American Telephone and Telegraph "long lines" division.

The union leader also said the new agreement was "unusual" in that it was granted without the union's having to make any open threat of strike action.

However, Hughes did say Saturday night, as the midnight expiration of the old contract drew closer with no agreement in sight, that failure to reach agreement might bring wildcat strikes.

He said that after midnight the locals around the state would be on their own, if no concession were made.

The all-night bargaining session had extended seven and a half hours beyond midnight before both sides reached agreement and concluded the talks. The deadline went by without reported incidents.

The company said the new agreement, which does not have to be ratified by the CWA membership, will increase its business costs by more than 4 million dollars a year. It added that the wage increases apply to all Ohio locations and employees.

The union said that the three-year agreement is effective Sunday.

Major fringe benefits provided by the pact include a medical-expense insurance plan, which will reimburse employees and pensioners for part of the costs incurred at time of major illness or accident to themselves or their families, an increase in the company-paid portion of the group life insurance program; $120 monthly minimum pension for employees with 30 years' service; $125 minimum for 40 years' service; and four weeks' vacation after 25 years' service, effective next Jan. 1.

Other provisions, the union said, are that no female employees will be required to work on a split shift that extends over a 12-hour period, and that in special circumstances transportation home will be provided by the company for female employees.

came over me. I can't explain it."

Investigators said scratches on Daruty's face indicated the girl put up a desperate struggle.

The girl had been secretly elected senior prom queen but was unaware of the honor, he mother said, and was not to have been informed until Sunday night's dance. The mother said Mari Anna was to have gone to the prom with another boy but the mother refused to identify him.

School officials said the dance would be canceled.

Detective Sgt. Charles E. Collins said Miss Hatch was choked to death in the kitchen of the home of a well-to-do manufacturer, R. S. Farr, in suburban Baldwin Hills.

Miss Hatch and several friends had gone to the home with Farr's daughter, Sue, after a meeting of a social organization, police said.

Police quoted Daruty as saying: "I started to the fish pond to throw some water on her. But when I got there, it was useless. So I threw her in the water."

Police said they found Daruty at the home of his brother, Joseph, 29, who had summoned officers. Investigators said he readily admitted the killing, explaining he had been despondent for several weeks over a seemingly hopeless romance.

The dead girl was Presbyterian, Daruty Syrian Orthodox.

here. Their wives were reported housed in Bayer's former presidential palace.

A report circulated that Menderes and some of his aides may be moved to Yassi Ada Island, a Turkish naval base in the Marmara Sea off Istanbul, to minimize the chance of any public disturbance. Military authorities declined comment.

2 Cabinet Members Freed

Two members of the Menderes Cabinet—former Defense Minister Semi Ergin and former Health Minister Lufti Kirdar—were released. Also freed were 95 deputies of Menderes' Democratic party.

Not all the Democratic deputies were originally arrested, but usually reliable sources said more than 200 were detained.

Among others held were 12 generals and various federal and provincial officials. One was Alkemur Kilic, former press director for Menderes and former Turkish press attaché in Washington.

Officials of the new government did not say whether Menderes and his ministers would stand trial. Gursel himself has said there would be no punishment.

Investigators were looking into records, however, to learn if there were any financial or other misdeeds.

Gursel is serving as his own defense minister.

Foreign Ministers Named

Among the key personalities in the new Cabinet he named Saturday night is Selim Sarper, 61, a career diplomat and a graduate of the Istanbul law faculty, who becomes foreign minister. Sarper is a veteran of 33 years in the Turkish foreign service. Among his most recent posts were assignments to the Turkish delegation to the United Nations and to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. His last post was as secretary general of the Foreign Ministry in Ankara.

The new finance minister, 44-year-old Ekrem Alican, is a graduate of the Istanbul University College of Political Science. He studied economics in London and is known in Turkey as a brilliant economist. Once a member of the Democratic party, he left it in the mid-50s to help in the founding of the small opposition Freedom party.

Maj. Gen. Muharrem Kiziloglu, 55, the new interior minister, is a graduate of the ground forces war college in Ankara and the Istanbul and Berlin war academies. He is fluent in English, Italian, German and French. His most recent post was a staff command in the army's ground forces section.

Heads Justice Ministry

Abdullah Gozubuyuk, 46, a lawyer, takes over the Justice Ministry. He is a graduate of Lausanne University law faculty and has published more than 100 essays and legal articles.

In charge of communications is Maj. Gen. Siki Ulay, recognized by his colleagues as one of the army's outstanding commanders. He is a former head of the army's war college in Ankara.

From numerous sources it was possible to piece together details of events which led to Menderes' overthrow, sought for weeks in demonstrations by university and high school students.

The first step directly leading to the coup was an antigovernment parade by military cadets here May 21.

They marched three miles through the capital untouched by police or soldiers. Bystanders saw the Turkish army for the first time involved in politics.

Federal officers had been disgusted by police brutality against demonstrating students and were beginning to believe that Menderes' ouster was the only solution.

Opened Series of Meetings

The night of May 22 a group of these officers opened a series of meetings to form a committee of national unity.

They sorted out by name other high army officers and provincial officials who could be trusted.

As late as Tuesday they hoped the government would soften the measures which led to the demonstrations.

The Premier himself reportedly had once been inclined to do this, but was dissuaded by Bayar and others. Bayar had vowed to a leading diplomat: "We will crush the opposition."

Wednesday, Menderes spurned a petition by 90 members of his own party to abolish a controversial parliamentary special committee which had virtually ruled Turkey for a month.

This convinced the officers there would be no changes.

They finally set the zero hour for the coup in Ankara at 4 a. m.

The zero hour in Istanbul was shortly after midnight.

Centered On Two Cities

The coup centered only on those two cities and on Eskesehir, an air base and provincial capital where Menderes at the time was staying.

Quietly, blockades were thrown around Bayar's residence at 3 a. m. One hour later, the general staff headquarters building was seized.

There was no deliberate violence. Witnesses heard firing at the general staff building, at the presidential palace and at the post office.

At 4:30 a. m. the soldiers moved into the palace itself, aroused Bayar and demanded his surrender. He refused.

According to accounts which responsible informants tend to credit: Bayar's daughter rushed in and said the soldiers had no authority to arrest him. In a brief melee a knife was thrown, apparently by Bayar's daughter. No one was injured. Bayar himself pulled a revolver, but officers wrested it from him. The revolver was found to be unloaded.

Bayar was taken to the war academy.

Menderes learned in Eskesehir at 2:30 a. m. of the seizure of Istanbul. He started off in his limousine on a road toward Turkey's southwest coast, his native section.

His speeding car was buzzed by air force jets and forced to halt by two light army reconnaissance planes which landed in front of and behind it. Menderes was seized and put aboard a C47 transport plane at a nearby field and taken to Ankara.

He was hustled quietly through a rear door and into the kitchen of the war academy where, according to reports, one general officer broke from a group and said, "Damn it, I'm going to get this guy," and struck him.

Menderes was not believed to have been hurt.

About 6 a. m., a colonel called at the U. S. Embassy and said, "We have done this for Turkey and not for ourselves."

"Tell the United States," he said, "that we want to build a Turkey on the model of the United States."

The Doctor Says

By HAROLD THOMAS HYMAN, M.D.

High, Low Humidity Cause Discomfort

You never hear a kind word said for humidity. In fact, you rarely hear humidity mentioned except on a sticky summer day when someone's sure to remark:

Dr. H. T. Hyman

"It's not the heat but the humidity." What's meant of course is excessive humidity. For humidity, like the temperature, is something we always have.

But have you ever given any thought to the discomforts that low humidity causes? Or, for that matter, what humidity is and how the degrees of humidity influence our well-being?

Let's start with a definition of humidity. When we speak of humidity we refer to the presence of water vapor or moisture in the air.

When the air is saturated with moisture, as on those sticky summer days and nights, we say the humidity is high, and the weathercaster estimates it at pretty near 100 per cent.

When the moisture content is low, as it is on deserts or on cold, crisp days, the relative humidity falls to perhaps 20 or 25 per cent.

HOW WHAT happens to us on those oppressive summer days is pretty much like this: Our cooling system is not closed. We have to rid ourselves of somewhere between one and four pints of water through our skins and maybe another pint or two in the air we breathe out.

Most of the water that escapes through our skin goes out in the form of what's politely called insensible perspiration. The rest is just sweat. On those muggy days when the air is already saturated with moisture, our insensible perspiration and sweat have no place to go.

We dab and we blot and we mop to no purpose, and we go for a cool drink only to discover it makes us drip more and feel worse.

BUT THAT'S NOTHING to what low humidity does to us. When the outside air is cold, it holds less water than when it's hot.

And when we turn on the heat in our homes without making provision for a supply of moisture, both the outside air and the room air take up our insensible perspiration and our sweat just like a squeezed sponge takes up water.

As a result of this water loss, our eyes get dry and heavy; the membranes of nose and throat feel parched; secretions become sticky and then crust, causing us to sneeze, hawk and cough.

Lips become chapped; our skins itch, scale and flake.

When we waken after several hours without a drink, our mouths and throats are parched.

We get up and instill eyedrops, gargle with antiseptic, rub our skins with ointments, swallow vitamins and gland pills and smear our lips with camphor ice.

ALL WE REALLY need is an all-night steam kettle or, if we're in the money, a humidifier for our heating system.

If you're one of the group of correspondents who've written to complain of any of the symptoms I just mentioned, buy yourself a combination thermometer-hygrometer.

Keep the former at 70 degrees and the latter between 35 and 50 per cent.

If you don't feel better within a week or so, better look for some other explanation.

If you are improved, send some of the money you've saved to your favorite charity.

For practical suggestions on how to enjoy leisure time after retirement, order your copy of Dr. Hyman's new leaflet, "Anticipating Retirement." Just send 10 cents for each copy to: Dr. Hyman, care of The Salem News, Box 469, Dept. B, Radio City Station, New York 19, N.Y.

U.S. Must Change Foreign Policy, Eaton Says in Hungary

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—American multimillionaire Cyrus E. Eaton said Sunday no propaganda or military force can change the structure of Communist countries, so the United States must radically revise its foreign policy.

The touring 76-year-old champion of East-West collaboration told a news conference here that if the Democrats win the next U.S. presidential election new policies of friendship toward the Communist world will be evolved.

"These policies will stress that there is no point in annihilating each other as, in my opinion, Socialist countries will remain Socialist and America will remain capitalist," he went on.

Eaton, from Cleveland, Ohio, is making a tour of East European Communist states. Earlier this month he was awarded the Lenin Peace Prize in Moscow for his efforts to promote better understanding between the Soviet Union and the United States.

He said future U.S. foreign policy should be based on respect for other forms of government and that all propaganda vehicles such as Radio Free Europe and the Voice of America should be abolished.

"I am one who firmly believes that Nikita Khrushchev wants peace," he declared. "It is tragic that he now has a lack of confidence in President Eisenhower as a result of the spy plane incident. But Khrushchev is an intelligent man and if he gets the right response from the United States, we will get somewhere."

Eaton said great efforts had been made to blame the failure of the summit meeting on Khrushchev.

"We Americans, however, will have to look into how such incidents as the spy plane contributed to the failure."

Eaton said it was his job and the job of American businessmen to persuade the "fanatics and lunatics not to destroy us in a world war."

Asked his reaction to a recent proposal by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn)—after Eaton talked with Khrushchev in Paris May 19—that his passport be withdrawn and he be prosecuted under an 18th-Century law, Eaton replied: "There is a line in our national anthem about America being a sweet land of liberty. If the sweet land of liberty now wants to tell me how to think, then the whole Constitution would have to be revised."

33 Drivers Draw Bead On Indianapolis Speed Record

200,000 to See 'Fastest' Field

Jim Rathmann
Rated Favorite

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The fastest field in the death-flirting event's 44-year history should hurdle to a new speed record in the Indianapolis 500-mile auto race today.

Memorial Day crowd of at least 200,000 jammed into the venerable "brickyard" may be treated to the most exciting 500 of all time as 33 drivers draw a bead on the present race record of 135.857 miles an hour.

The roaring charge of daredevil pilots and sleek, finely tuned machines could produce the first rookie champion since 1927. The field qualified at a record average of 144.070, compared with the previous high of 143.06 in 1958.

All eyes will be on the lavender and purple car driven by 27-year-old Jim Rathmann, who carries into his first 500 start a new four-lap record of 149.056 m.p.h. and a one-lap mark of 149.601 set in the qualifications. No rookie has won since George Souders' victory 33 years ago.

However, buried in the eighth starting row, Hurlbush of Lennox, Calif., will have to drive down three former champions including last year's winner, Roger Ward, among a half dozen seasoned favorites.

Ward, who set the current record last year in the leadoff trio of the 11-three-car rows which will burst into snarling action shortly after speedway owner Tony Hulman dramatically pronounces: "Gentlemen, start your engines."

Holding the pole position is Eddie Sachs, Allentown, Pa., making his fourth 500 start, while in the middle of the first row is Jim Rathmann, Miami, Fla., 11 times a speedway starter and runner-up in 1952, 1957 and last year.

Jim Rathmann Friday night was named favorite in the race by members of the champion 100-mile-an-hour club, composed of former finishers.

Other former winners include Troy Ruttman (1952) of Dearborn, Mich., and Jimmy Bryan (1958) of Phoenix, Ariz., starting in the sixth (second row) and 10th (fourth row) positions, respectively.

Bryan, who was left at the post last year because of clutch trouble, will drive the lightest and shortest car in the race, a yellow metal-cal special. This has a horizontal engine, designed by George Salih who also built the Belong Special which won the 1957 and 1958 races.

Other hell-bent-for-greatest veterans who may get the checkered victory flag include Tony Bettenhauser, the "dean" of the starters with 13 previous speedway appearances, and Johnny Thomson, third-place winner last year who is making his eighth start.

The field will be competing for a record purse of about $350,000 with the winning car harvesting more than $100,000. Ward last year earned a record $106,850.

3 KSU Students to Vie In Gymnastics

Three Kent State University students will participate in the 1960 men's National Junior Gymnastic championships to be held here next Saturday.

Joe Vitangeli of Canton and Pete Dusek and Jim Reis of Cleveland make up the Kent State entry.

More than 30 entrants are expected for the meet, which will be held in the University's Memorial gymnasium. The meet will start at 9:30 a.m. and will have afternoon and evening sessions.

In addition, the 10-member 1960 women's Olympic team will perform an exhibition at the evening session.

Four-Minute Mile Barrier Cracked by Two U.S. Runners

MODESTO, Calif. (AP)—American runners finally are cracking through the four-minute barrier for the mile.

Little Jim Beatty and slim Dyrrol Burleson proved that Saturday night as they finished one-two at the California Relays after Australia's world record holder Herb Elliott was scratched by injury.

Beatty smashed the American citizen's record with 3 minutes, 58 seconds at the University of Or-

Reds Defeat Braves on 9th Inning Homer

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds for the second game in a row defeated Milwaukee Sunday with a ninth inning home run — this time a two-run poke by Vada Pinson that sealed a 4-2 decision.

Young Jay Hook tamed the Braves' sluggers with a seven hitter that enabled Cincinnati to replace Milwaukee in the National League third place.

Carlton Willey, whose two victories this year were at the Reds' expense, gave up a single to Eddie Kasko in the ninth before Pinson's decisive poke.

Redleg shortstop Roy McMillan, benched last Monday for poor hitting, returned to the lineup and drove in the Reds other two runs with a homer in the second inning.

Ed Bailey's grand slam homer Friday had defeated the Braves 9-5.

Patterson Opens Up On Sparring Partners

NEWTOWN, Conn. (AP)—Floyd Patterson opened up on his sparring partners in a four-round workout Sunday and even clipped his kid brother with a couple of hard punches while their parents watched.

Patterson, in a determined mood in his training for his rematch with heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson, had Oliver Wilson groggy toward the end of their two rounds. Then 210-pound Julio Mederos tried to trade punches and Patterson slammed him into the ropes with a couple of left hooks.

When Raymond Patterson, Floyd's younger brother who says he'd like to fight Johansson, also shot a couple of hard blows at the ex-champion, Floyd banged away at him, too.

egon sophomore Burleson was timed at 3:59.2, the first time two U.S. runners were under four minutes in a single race. Until this year, only Don Bowden of California, in 1955, had run under four minutes.

The only faster mile was a 3:57.8 by Elliott on May 16, 1958. The Australian later in the year set his world mark of 3:54.5 at Dublin, Ireland.

Both he and top United States Olympic sprint hope, Ray Norton, met the injury jinx Saturday night. Elliott's right knee, which had bothered him a week, brought a last-minute doctor's decision that he shouldn't run. Norton injured a leg muscle in an unsuccessful lunge at the tape in the 100-yard dash as he tried to nip Oregon freshman Harry Jerome.

It wasn't known how long the two will be out.

However, the fans weren't disappointed in the race as Beatty, former North Carolina star from Charlotte now an aircraft company employee in Mountain View, Calif., put on his show.

He led through most of the first lap and then his Santa Clara Valley Youth Village teammate Laszlo Tabori took over as the pace setter. The Hungarian refugee held the lead until the final 220 yards when the 128-pound Beatty made his move. Burleson, who ran a 3:38.6 on April 23, tried to catch him but failed.

"That's the first time I've ever had anything left," the collegian declared. "I tried to turn it on at the final turn but there wasn't anything left."

Beatty explained, "I was to lead for the first 150 meters in swing tempo. Then in the last quarter it was each man for himself."

Ed Bailey's grand slam homer Friday had defeated the Braves 9-5.

Bally Ache Favored In Jersey Derby

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—Durable Bally Ache, running for the fifth straight week in an iron horse performance, is favored to win Monday's $100,000 Jersey Derby at Garden State Park against Venetian Way and Tompon and three other standout 3-year-olds.

Trainer Jimmy Pitt asserts the son of Ballydam is not battle weary and will run away from the field in the 1 1/4 mile Jersey. Since April 30, Bally Ache has won the Stepping Stone, finished second in the Kentucky Derby, won the Preakness Prep and the Preakness Stakes.

In addition to the top three field includes King Ranch's Encanto, Mrs. Adele Rand's Bourbon Prince and Green Dunes' Celtic Ash. If all six start, the first modern revival of America's oldest derby will be $122,330, worth $77,995 to the winner. All carry 126 pounds. There will be no national television or radio broadcast of the race.

50 Cars to Race Today at Canfield

Approximately 50 cars are expected to compete in the 11th annual Memorial Day 100-mile race at Canfield Speedway today.

Time trials begin at noon and the fastest 40 qualifiers will start the long 200-lap grind over the half-mile oval at 2:30 p.m. Gates to the Speedway will open at 10:30 a.m.

Tee Stance

By JIMMY DEMARET

Arms and club in line

The longer the arc, the more continuous the strain on knowledge of the swing's fundamentals.

Let's review the stance at the address for a tee shot. The feet are almost parallel with the intended line of flight, except that the left foot is drawn slightly back. The right foot is on the line. The feet are spread to a width close to that of the shoulders. The knees are flexed, somewhat tense. The hips are turned slightly.

The body is bent forward from the waist, but the back maintains a reasonably straight line. The head is steady. The arms are comfortably close to each other in order to suggest that each is an extension of the club. As shown in the accompanying illustration, the arms and the club form a reasonably straight line.

The only difference in hitting a tee shot and any of the fairway woods is that on the drive the ball is played slightly more to the left than with fairway woods.

John Johnson, making his first start, pitched an eight-hitter and Andy Carey batted in three runs for Kansas City as the Athletics defeated the Chicago White Sox 4-2 Sunday.

Carey drove in one run with a sacrifice fly in the first inning and two more with a home run in the third.

Johnson's victory was his first following two losses in relief. The performance moved him into strong contention for a regular starting berth.

Johnson, 26, was a pitching rival of Chicago starter Herb Score when the two attended high school in the West Palm Beach, Fla., area. He struck out seven and walked only two.

Score, making his sixth start of the season, was wild and lasted only 1-3 innings.

Washington, shut out by Bob Turley 3-0 for eight innings, came up with three in the ninth to chase Turley and send the game into overtime. The Senators moved out front in the top of the 10th on a walk to Harmon Killebrew, a sacrifice, and infield out and Faye Throneberry's run scoring double.

New York tied it again in the last of the 10th when Gil McDougald drew a pass from Don Lee on a 3-2 pitch with the bases loaded and two out. Bobby Richardson hit into a force out ending the inning.

Events Clobbered by Rain

Ohio School Sports Carnival Decides All Titles But One

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's four-ply high school sports carnival has decided all but one of its champions. Foul weather did its best to clobber the Friday and Saturday events at Ohio State University.

Monday Convoy-Union (14 - 2) goes against Liberty Union (13-0) for the Class A baseball title.

The Memorial Day tilt begins at 9 a.m.

Saturday golf, track and tennis crowns were awarded plus the Class AA baseball laurels.

In the diamond tilt, Cincinnati Elder captured its third straight crown with a 4-3 win over Lima Senior. This was the Queen City team's 21st win in 23 outings.

On the links Upper Arlington shot a four-man team total of 650 in 36 holes for its third school championship. Arlington won the matches in 1941 and 1956. Alliance was second with 655 in a sudden death playoff with Kettering Fairmont.

In the individual golf events, a sudden death playoff made Bob Carson of Whitehall Yearling the victor. He and Jerry McGee of New Lexington both had 153 going into the playoff.

The tennis championships were decided on the indoor courts after rain forced the players into French Field House.

Clark Graebner of Lakewood took his second straight court crown by defeating Bob Archer of Cuyahoga Falls 6-2, 6-3.

Winner of the doubles matches was the team of Walter Beatty and Dave Harrington from Middletown. The two, last year's runners up, whipped Craig Mickle and Dan Schafer of Upper Arlington, 6-4 and 8-6. An Elyria team, the 1959 victors, did not qualify.

In the track events, Cleveland Glenview defended its title to retain the Class AA track — field crown with a score of 31. Second place Springfield got 26.

In the Class A cinder events, Paulding won with 16 points, just ahead of Cincinnati Deporres with 15.

The Salem Quakers failed to break into the scoring column in the Class AA track meet.

Eleven Salem athletes took part in the meet, including two relay teams. They were Jim Lehwald, Bob Zepernick, Jim Solmen, Dan Krichbaum, Gary Devan, Dave Edling, Ron Janovec, Tim Burchfield, Tom Floyd, Dick Burt and Gordy Scullion.

Indians, Tigers Split Contests

Tribe Win Halts Detroit Streak at 6

DETROIT (AP) — Jim Piersall gunned down the streaking Detroit Tigers with a three-run home run in the ninth inning for a 6-4 Cleveland victory Sunday after the Tigers won a home run duel in the opener of a doubleheader 6-5.

The fleet outfielder, who had a first-game home run and drove in six runs for the day, hopped, skipped and jumped around the bases in joy after he drove one of Tom Morgan's pitches deep into the upper left field seats.

The blow ended Detroit's winning streak at six and kept the resurgent Tigers from taking second place away from the Indians.

It also provided a crushing let-down for 42,670 throaty spectators who had seen their Tiger heroes win 12 of their last 16 games.

Norm Cash, a Cleveland castoff who won the regular first base job in Detroit, decided the opener with his third home run of the season. His solo blast off Dick Stigman in the fifth inning broke a 5-5 tie.

Charlie Maxwell hit a two-run homer for Detroit in the third while Piersall and Tito Francona connected for the Indians.

DETROIT (AP) — Seldom-used Ray Semproch pitched two-hit relief ball over the last five innings and Norm Cash, a Cleveland cast-off, hit a winning home run in Detroit's 6-5 triumph over the Indians Sunday in the first game of a doubleheader.

It was Detroit's sixth straight victory and the Tigers' 12th in their last 16 games.

Semproch, obtained last winter from the Philadelphia Phillies, had pitched only eight innings of relief before Sunday. The only hits he permitted were a sixth inning double by Bubba Phillips and a ninth innng single by Bob Hale.

It was Semproch's first American League triumph.

Cash decided the slugging contest with his third home run, a smash into the lower right field seats in the fifth inning off reliever Dick Stigman. It broke a 5-5 tie.

Larry Jackson, who gained his fourth straight complete game victory to even his record at 5-5, started the Cardinals' three-run rally in the fifth inning with a single. Sam Jones, who walked five, was kayoed in that frame. He suffered his fourth loss against five victories.

Daryl Spencer drove in three of the four St. Louis runs.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Your advice to Gladys, whose husband was a sport car nut, was for the birds. You told her to "count her blessings." You said she should be happy her competition is a four-wheeled hunk of steel and not a two-legged blonde.

It's obvious that YOUR husband is no sport car fanatic. Mine is—so please listen to someone who knows what it's all about.

I wish to heaven my husband were interested in another woman instead of cars. I'd know how to fight that kind of competition. If the other woman is attractive, you your looks and trim down your figure. If she's affectionate you can fight this kind of fire with fire. But how do you compete with a Jaguar or an MG?

I'm 31 years old. Ann. I don't need a retreat and I'm not out of gas just yet. But every spare minute finds him in the garage with the cars. No conversation. No church together. No visiting friends or family. Just grease on the rugs, grease in the sink and gasoline on the lawn—I KNOW.

Dear I Know: Thanks for your letter. Now we all know how it looks from the other side of the dashboard.

Spiked by Guests

Dear Ann: My husband and I have both worked hard and long to have a lovely home — all paid for. We recently put down beautiful inlaid linoleum in the vestibule, corridors and family room.

Last week we had guests in and the metal lifts on the women's heels have just about ruined our inlaid floors.

I cried when I saw the hundreds of little nicks all over. I phoned the floor-covering firm that sold us the linoleum and they said they could do nothing but recommend a heavy wax. The nicks cannot be removed.

Do you think it would be all right to ask the women guests to remove their shoes when they enter our home?—H.A.

Dear H.A.: Not unless you're having a Japanese costume party.

Floors are to walk on. You can't ask guests to remove their shoes because you're concerned about the linoleum.

You should have investigated the durability of the material before you made the investment. Some people are willing to sacrifice practically for beauty's sake. (Example: White carpet in Chicago.)

A heavy coating of wax will help cover the nicks and protect the floor somewhat against future scarring.

Self-Spited

Dear Ann: I had a very wonderful boy friend and we had a grand steady relationship all through our sophomore year in high school. My dream situation turned into a horrible nightmare when the girl I considered my best friend stole him away under my very nose.

Now they're together all the time and he doesn't even know I exist. When I see them holding hands in the halls I get so mad I want to go over and pull her pony tail right out of her head.

I know it's wrong to hate anybody so much but I can't help it.

How can I calm myself down?—FRENZIED RAYE.

Dear Frenzied: Tell yourself that hatred is an acid that does fare more damage to the container in which it is stored than anything on which it is poured. Your violent feelings are not hurting her. They're hurting you.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.
